The main house has the potential for at least four bedrooms and is generally in fairly good condition throughout. It does require renovation throughout but is certainly not falling down. The cortijo is connected to a number of caves which would be idea for a holiday rental business or even for animal quarters. There are a further two outbuildings which could both also be converted and garages which could also make further accommodation. The setting for this property is perfect and the views and land are wonderful. The property has agricultural water and town water and electricity are close by. Situated in Galera in the region of Huéscar, province of Granada, roughly 150 kilometres from the provincial capital
